EDA funds sought for Port improvement

Hancock supervisors Tuesday, meeting after a brief Labor Day holiday, approved a resolution seeking Title X funds for roads and drainage improvements as part of the Public Works and Economic Development Act.

Port and Harbor Director Wilson Webre, who petitioned the board to pass the resolution, said the application was being prepared by Southern Mississippi Planning and Development District Director Les Newcomb.

Wilson said Newcomb had recommended the county apply on an 80-20 percent matching basis for a grant of $200,000 towards a total project cost of $250,000.

The grant would be used for construction and maintenance of needed roadways, drainage facilities, railway roadbeds and equipment storage facilities at Port Bienville Industrial Park, according to Webre.

Webre said 75 percent of the grant would be expended for labor, by virtue of the county's present unemployment rate.

In other business, the board begged off passing an ordinance that would have imposed penalties on persons not following recommended actions of the county health department for ridding the county of potential mosquito breeding areas.

Board attorney Sam Favre questioned the authority of the board to pass any ordinance that would subject persons to fines for not cleaning up breeding areas, although heat one supervisor Jerry Ladner said he felt sure the county had the authority to impose regulations which governed the health, safety and well-being of its citizens.

The ordinance was requested by county health department sanitarian Louis Fernandez who said the action was part of a state program designed to fight the threat of more deaths from mosquitoes carrying encephalitis.

After deliberation the board passed a watered down recommendation that persons follow the guidelines for mosquito control as recommended by the county and state health departments.

In another matter, the board after several delays due to technical problems, awarded a $596,000 contract to the Alabama Waterproofing Company for the Fenton Delisle Highway. The project is to be financed with county, state and federal funds.

The contract to Alabama Waterproofing had been delayed because its bid exceeded the amount allocated by the state and federal officials.

A reduction in the amount of asphalt required was later accepted. Board business was interrupted temporarily by a request from unsuccessful beat one candidate Harlan

G. Dean to address the board. Speaking through board president, Dolph Kellar, Dean announced he was withdrawing his petition for a recount of the beat one ballots, which resulted in the Democratic nomination of incumbent Jerry Ladner.

Board places school personnel in contract

The Hancock County School Board Tuesday voted to place all non-certified personnel employed by the school district under contract beginning with the 1975-76 school term.

It marks the first time personnel other than teachers have been under contract with the county board.

In other business Tuesday the board approved the employment of two new teachers for Hancock North Central School. The two teachers are Mrs. Alma M. Black, who will teach Special Education Level II, and Charles C. Lyle.

The board also accepted the resignations of Edwin Lee as Route 2 bus driver, and Patty Young as Level II Special Ed teacher at HNC.

In an emergency measure the board gave authority to superintendent of education K. G. McCarty to purchase floor fans as needed in the county school district.

The board recessed until 9 a.m. Tuesday Sept. 9.

TIP line discontinued for lack of funding

The failure of most municipal and county governments to respond to a request by the Mississippi Coast Crime Commission for funds to cover expenses of the TIP (Turn In A Pusher) Program, a project of MCCC, has forced termination of the TIP Program as of the close of business on August 20th, said Joe M. Hancock, President of the Mississippi Coast Crime Commission.

Beginning in February, 1975, the Crime Commission sent letters of request for fair share nominal allocations to the Boards of Supervisors and heads of municipal governments in the three coastal counties of Hancock, Harrison and Jackson. We are deeply grateful for the immediate response to this request by the cities of Bay St. Louis and Biloxi and the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County. The City of Long Beach, too, has been extremely supportive of the TIP Program from its inception and should be highly commended. The Harrison County Board of Supervisors, at a meeting in the spring of 1975, with four board members present, unanimously approved an allocation for the TIP Program, however, as of this date, the Chancery Clerk has failed to forward a check to the Crime Commission, in accordance with the Board's order.

Postal service solves rate question

Two Christmas stamps for use during the 1975 holiday mailing season, based on an early Christmas card and a 15th century madonna and child painting will be issued without a monetary denomination as a part of the design, the U.S. Postal Service announced. Details concerning the issue date and the first day of issue ceremony will be announced later.

Stevan Dohanos has adapted one stamp from a Christmas card by Louis Prang which appeared about 1878. It is among the early Christmas cards in the collection at the Museum of the City of New York. Although authorities do not agree on the date of first Christmas card printing in this country they do agree that Louis Prang was among the first producers of 100 years ago.

The wording on the original card - "Ring the joybells - ring! Christ is born - our King" - was modified to read "Merry Christmas" because of the reduction of the card to the stamp size.

The second 1975 Christmas stamp is based on a madonna and child painting by Italian artist Domenico Ghirlandaio, who was a prolific artist and creator of mosaics in the 15th century. The painting hangs in the National Gallery of Art in Washington, and the only other madonna attributed to Ghirlandaio hangs in the Louvre. Both are believed to have been painted about 1470.

"1975" appears in the upper right corner of the Masterpiece stamp, and across the bottom, in two lines of type are "Ghirlandaio: National Gallery, Christmas U.S. Postage. In addition to "Merry Christmas" the lettering on the Christmas card stamp reads "U.S. Postage 1975", and at the bottom appears "Early Card by Louis Prang."

The vertical commemorative stamps will be printed on the Andreotti gravure press in six colors. The madonna stamp design was designed by Brandbury Thompson with Frank J. Waslick, of the Bureau of Engraving, as the modeler. The Christmas card stamp, designed by Stevan Dohanos, was modeled by Esther Porter, also of the Bureau.

There are 50 stamps per pane and 6 plate numbers for each stamp, and they will be the first U.S. Postage stamps ever issued without a denomination. When released the stamps will be valid for the first class postage rate in effect at the time of issue.

These stamps are already in production because of the traditional large quantities of Christmas stamps printed each year - about one billion - it is necessary for the Bureau of Engraving and Printing to print the stamps well in advance of the holiday season.

The non-denominational format was adopted because of the uncertainty of postage rates later this year.

Bicentennial tags available

The state motor vehicle comptroller's office has already received several requests to furnish civic organizations Bicentennial tags so that the respective organizations can sell them to the general public for $1 each.

Motor Vehicle Comptroller Bob Sharpe said that all civic organizations, service clubs and tax collectors within the State of Mississippi are eligible to sell the Bicentennial tags.

These organizations will be required as specified in House Bill 1010 to purchase the tags directly from the motor vehicle comptroller for 50 cents per plate. Sharpe said that interested parties should make their requests in writing to the Motor Vehicle Comptroller, P. O. Box 1140, Jackson, MS. 39205.

The request should include the name of the organization, the name and phone number of an officer of that organization, the number of tags requested, and advance payment for the number of tags requested.

Sharpe also said that requesting organizations must make arrangements to have the tags picked up and that no Bicentennial tags would be mailed.

A dream of two years came to full realization recently with the placing of three bird sanctuaries near here in the community of Diamondhead.

General Mills offers Crocker leadership awards

College scholarships from $100 to $500 are available to all high school seniors through the Betty Crocker Search for Leadership in Family Living, now in its 22nd year.

Invitations to enroll in the program have been mailed to high schools across the nation. Schools new to the program may write the Betty Crocker Search, P. O. Box 1113, Minneapolis, Minn. 55440, for information.

Enrollment deadline is October 31, 1975. On Tuesday, Dec. 2, each participating school will administer a 50-minute written examination. Prepared and scored by Science Research Associates, Inc., Chicago, this general knowledge and attitude examination is the first important step of the scholarship program.

From the examination results a Betty Crocker Family Leader of Tomorrow will be chosen for each participating school. School winners are acknowledged with special awards and their examinations are entered in state competition.

Each State Family Leader of Tomorrow receives a $1,500 college scholarship while every state second-place winner receives a $500 grant. State winners also earn for their school a 20-volume reference work, "The Annals of America," from Encyclopedia Britannica Educational Corporation.

State winners, each accompanied by a faculty advisor, will be the guests of General Mills next spring on an expense-paid tour of Washington, D. C. A special event of the tour is announcement of the All-American Family Leader of Tomorrow, whose scholarship is increased to $5,000. Second, third and fourth place national winners receive scholarship increases to $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000 respectively.

The Betty Crocker Search is National Association of Secondary School Principals.

I sincerely thank you for the support given me in the second primary. I congratulate my opponent for his strong showing and I humbly ask his supporters for their vote in the forthcoming general election.

MISSISSIPPI MARIJUANA to provide world standard

UNIVERSITY - The University of Mississippi has been selected to supply international standard grade marijuana to research centers throughout the world in a move which is expected to lead significant stability to marijuana studies.

"This is the first time marijuana samples for different projects around the world will come from a known geographical region, be processed by known procedures, and distributed by a world body," said Dr. Carlton Turner, director of the Marijuana Project at Ole Miss.

"You will no longer see London researchers getting their marijuana from Afghanistan or Americans using Mexican material. Ideally, this will stop the ambiguities and differences existing in findings being released from different places and hopefully help straighten out the mess marijuana research is in today."

Financed by the National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA), the original Ole Miss marijuana contract which has surpassed $1,000,000 will supply research samples to all bona fide research centers sanctioned by NIDA and the United Nations.

Last year the UN recommended that analytical procedures and laboratory techniques used in the Ole Miss marijuana project be adopted throughout the world. Dr. Turner was the NIDA representative to the international conference on marijuana in Athens, Greece, which elected to use the Mississippi marijuana as standard grade. The Athens meeting was the second phase of a long range UN study of cannabis.

Total marijuana research grants and contracts awarded Ole Miss to date exceed $1.5 million.

Symphony opens
 fortieth season

Both the Copland and Creston selections will be performed as part of the Orchestra's bicentennial commemoration, according to music director and conductor Torkanowsky. "As part of the bicentennial celebration," he said, "we have planned a series of concerts which offer many selections by American composers."

The concert on Tuesday, September 16 is at 8:30 p.m., and the concert on Wednesday, September 17 is at 7:30 p.m.

Tickets for the entire season, tickets for either of two split series and single tickets are available, with a 50 percent discount for students on the full season. For more information on tickets or on the Symphony's bus service for season ticket holders, call the Symphony Office at 524-0404.

Attorney general enjoins two companies

Mississippi Attorney General A. F. Summer took action early this week to stop the solicitations in Mississippi by two companies claiming to furnish names of missing heirs and unclaimed bank accounts.

The suits, filed by Summer's Consumer Protection Division, charged the Nationwide Abandoned Property Recovery Agency of Freeport, New York with false representations in a mail order scheme in which the consumer, by sending in a $15 research fee, was promised a research report which disclosed the name and location of the potential unclaimed account.

The other suit was filed against the California Probate Document Service of Canoga Park, California which offered a similar service for unclaimed estates. The service also required a research fee.

Summer claimed that the probate document company had violated the law by deceptive advertising in giving the public the implied expectation of inheriting property when the chances were non-existent.

Summer asked the Hinds County Court to enjoin both of the companies from conducting any further business in Mississippi without disclosing in advance the state in which the bank account is located and the amount in the account.

In the case of the California Probate Company, the attorney general wanted the company to disclose the method in which Mississippi residents are chosen to receive the promotional material.

"These get-rich schemes are becoming more prevalent as mail solicitations from all over the country," Summer said. "They give the public false hopes of windfall riches when they are nothing more than promotions sent to names out of the public directories and consist of information that can be obtained from local or state government agencies at little or no cost."

Summer advised that he had previously released a warning to Mississippi consumers to beware of these schemes after he had received several complaints from Mississippians who had sent in money.

The court was asked by Summer to pay back the money it had received through these solicitations.

The Hinds County Court has set a 9 a.m. September 11 hearing for the injunction in Jackson.

Hospitality center
 celebrates first birthday

The Waveland Hospitality Center on Highway 90 celebrated its first birthday August 24 with a party and open house that was attended by RSVP volunteers and visitors.

The center, which has served more than 4,000 visitors in its first year of existence, treats passers-by to coffee, a road map, directions, and a rest stop. Tourists from as far away as Australia, Canada, South Africa, Japan, England, and Switzerland have stopped at the Waveland center.

"We are happy to be able to continue this service to the community and the Coast for another year," said the center's coordinator, Mrs. Jean Gleim.

The Waveland center, which is just west of Our Shopping Center, is open seven days a week from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Mayor Johnny Longo of Waveland, who was instrumental in the creation of the center, also attended the open house.

USM to offer consumer course

LONG BEACH - A course designed to acquaint students with consumer problems will be taught during the fall quarter at the University of Southern Mississippi-Gulf Park, announced Dr. Mary E. Faulkinberry, chairman of the Department of Home Economics Education.

Dr. Louella G. Milner, associate professor of home economics education, will teach the course restricted to home economics graduate students.

The course will be taught from 6:30-9 p.m. on Monday nights.

"Curriculum materials pertinent to teaching consumer education on the secondary level will be developed," said Dr. Faulkinberry.

Dr. Milner has made a special study of consumer problems in Mississippi and has recently attended several national meetings regarding the subject.

Dr. Faulkinberry said the course, 804, Consumer Home Economics education, can be counted as resident credit on master's or specialist's degrees or to renew teaching certification.

Civil War speech delivered

State historian Bill Wright of the Mississippi Department of Archives and History was the guest speaker of the Hancock County Historical Society last Thursday at the Society's regular monthly meeting.

Wright delivered a 30-minute speech entitled "The Private Soldier of the Civil War" that touched on both the humorous and tragic aspects of soldiering during the Civil War. The Jackson historian brought with him several pieces of Civil War equipment and personal items that became a part of the personal lives of the soldiers during the war.

In a question and answer period following the talk, Wright fielded questions from the crowd of about 35 local historian buffs.

The Hancock County Historical Society holds its monthly meeting on the fourth Thursday of each month at the Civic Room of the Gulf National Bank in Bay St. Louis. The next meeting is set for September 25. The scheduled speaker will be announced at a later date.

VA news

Checks, ranging from $3 to $174 will be mailed in September to 2.2 million disabled veterans and 320,000 dependents who qualify for increases in their disability compensation and dependency indemnity compensation signed into law by President Ford on August 5.

Merlyn J. Cook, Assistant Jackson VA Center Director for Regional Office, said the increases of 10 to 12 per cent were effective August 1, but the change came too late to be incorporated in the checks to be mailed at the end of August.

A separate check for the amount of the increase will be mailed to beneficiaries during September, he said. The new rates will be reflected in checks to be mailed at the end of September and in all subsequent monthly checks. Total cost of the increases for the first year is $450 million.

Cook emphasized that no application or inquiry is necessary. The increases will be made automatically by the agency, he explained.

Veterans with a 50 per cent or less disability rating received a 10 per cent increase in their monthly payments. Veterans with a greater disability rating and DIC beneficiaries received a 12 per cent increase under the new law.

Monthly payments to single veterans with 10 per cent disabilities were increased from $32 to $35. Veterans rated 100 per cent under the general schedule were raised from $584 to $655. For the most severely disabled, the maximum amount was raised from $1,484 to $1,628 monthly.

Kuwait trade agreements expected to develop

A delegation of high-ranking officials from Kuwait conducted a trade mission to Mississippi last week, and before leaving the State said they expect to begin immediately on some projects proposed to them by Governor Waller and business leaders in the State.

Abdul Rahman Al-Ateeqi, Minister of Finance for Kuwait, told a news conference in Jackson that "we expect to begin immediately on some projects," and he suggested that a rice mill to process Mississippi grown rice may receive top priority.

Al-Ateeqi said, "We are well aware of the possibilities here. We are going back home and as soon as we get home, future (trade) relations will be started immediately."

Governor Waller led the delegation on a tour of the State Wednesday and hosted the State Dinner for them Wednesday night.

Al-Ateeqi said, "I prefer not to give figures specifically, but we invest generally in the United States huge amounts."

Governor Waller, who in visited the Kuwait officials to Mississippi while heading a trade mission to the Middle East in April, said he was "very encouraged" by discussions held during the two-day visit.

"We need money invested in Mississippi to develop our abundant resources and to allow us to process what we grow, instead of having to ship it out of the State," he said.

Waller said that the Kuwaitis had been given a detailed proposal for financing the needed rice facilities and that the chances of their providing capital were "very good indeed."

Craig, State Civil Defense Director, to serve with Dr. Cobb as co-chairmen of the coordinated effort.

In addition, the Governor said he has asked the directors of the State's Planning and Development Districts to serve as coordinators.

According to Dr. Cobb, the massive clean up effort is aimed at destroying the breeding and nesting areas of the common household mosquito which spreads the sometimes deadly encephalitis virus.

August Crop Report estimated production of rice in Mississippi to be 6.9 million hundred weight - a record high. He said that acres for harvest are up sharply and yields are expected to be up slightly at forty-two hundred pounds per acre.

He noted that the 54 percent increase in production for Mississippi compared to a 9 percent increase for the United States.

the Governor's Office of Education, headed by Dr. Milton Baxter, in cooperation with the Mississippi Post Secondary Education Planning Board.

Dr. Baxter said he expects some 375 representatives of education, government and business to attend the Conference.

Baxter said the key note speaker will be Judge J. P. Coleman, who will speak about the relationship of higher education to government.

Persons interested in enrolling in the courses were urged to contact the registrar's office of the college or university through which they would like to obtain credit.

CANADIANS SOUGHT

The Mississippi Agricultural and Industrial Board's Travel and Tourism Department was in Canada last week to tell Canadians about travel and tourism attractions in Mississippi.

Dr. Robert L. Robinson, Executive Director of the A&I Board, said that the purpose of attending the twenty-day event was to lure more of the Canadians who vacation in the United States to Mississippi.

"We need to get a bigger share of the 19 percent of all Canadians who travel to the South, and a better percentage of the $166 million they spend here," Robinson said.

MANY THANKS

I want to thank the voters and citizens of Beat 1, Hancock County for the wonderful vote and support they gave me in both the Democratic primaries. My family and I will be forever grateful. I want to thank the many people too numerous to mention for working so hard and so tirelessly in my behalf.

I congratulate Mr. Ladner and wish him the best of luck in his next four years. I know the many problems he will face. I feel confident being elected in a beat will help him in making his decisions.

Sincerely,

Harlan G. Dean

Home-Ec Notes

Retail beef prices are at a rather high level although a decline is expected during the next six months. During periods of high food prices consumers often turn to buying beef from feedlots or buying sides of beef from retail stores. Purchasing beef this way sounds more economical, but is it? Can you really buy a 600 pound carcass for less than most people pay for hamburger? Let's compare the costs involved in purchasing beef from the meat counter, purchasing a frozen beef from a supermarket, and purchasing a steer out of a feedlot.

First, if you start with a 1,000 pound USDA choice steer, you get about a 600 pound carcass, which after shrinkage and trimming yields about 437 pounds of choice meat. If you buy 437 pounds of meat at the supermarket, you will pay about $617.65 ($1.40 per pound).

Second, if you buy a 600 pound choice carcass from the meat department of your local supermarket, you will pay about $476.00 (79 cents per pound) including cutting and grinding, wrapping and freezing. Locker rental will add about $21.80 per year. Interest on investment at five percent per year will add about $15.48. So the total payment for 437 pounds of locker beef purchased from your local supermarket will be about $618.08 ($1.39 per pound).

Third, if you buy a 1,000 pound choice steer from a feed lot, you pay about $480. To this you must add the slaughtering cost of about $18. To have the carcass cut or ground, wrapped and quick frozen you should budget $12 (12 cents per pound). Also add locker rental of $21.80, plus interest on investment of $15.38 per year. The total payment for 437 pounds of locker beef purchased from a feed lot is about $608.98 ($1.38 per pound).

If you choose not to buy a carcass, there are other ways to save money on meat purchases. For example, if you own a freezer, or rent a locker, you can buy meat in quantity when your supermarket has a special. You may also buy lower quality meat, but if you do, what you save in price you may lose in quality. If you take this option, you should give additional thought to ways of preparing less tender cuts, to make them taste better.

Because beef prices and other costs may vary, you should calculate the various options for your own situation. Also remember there are a number of ways that a beef carcass can be cut for consumer use which can increase or decrease its value. For instance, if you buy a side of beef and have a very large portion of it ground, you would probably be ahead to buy ground beef at the retail counter. On the other hand, you might prefer the quality of your own ground beef.

Old coupons should be exchanged

ATLANTA - Food stamp recipients possessing old food coupons after the August 31 expiration date may exchange them for new ones, the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) reports.

Until August 31, the old type coupons may be used at authorized retail food stores. After that date, officials said, they will not be accepted at grocery stores, but can be exchanged for new stamps at local offices designated by state agencies. The exchange will be dollar for dollar value, new stamps for old.

A new series of stamps - $1, $2 and $5 - was introduced on March 1, 1975, replacing the old 50 cents, $2 and $5 series. The amendments to the food stamp regulations were published in the Federal Register on Aug. 22 and became effective immediately.

Have your child's eyesight tested

This month 50 million children across the country will enter school for the first time. For most, not without some ground work—perhaps a visit to the school, new clothes, school supplies, as well as the parents' gentle emotional preparation for this momentous day in a young life. Yet, with all this care, one very important aspect may be inadvertently overlooked—your child's eyesight.

It is, when you stop to think about it, one of the most important tools he can bring to this new experience—and one that may well determine how well or how poorly he does as he starts through school. For a child who displays learning or emotional problems, may, in fact, simply not be seeing correctly. With a common condition like myopia (nearsightedness), he may appear introverted and not willing to participate in group activities.

Conversely, if he has hyperopia (farsightedness) he may be restless, overactive, and unable to concentrate on close work.

Yet, how easy it is for parents to overlook early eye care. There could be obvious symptoms of vision problems—squinting or frowning, redness or watering, frequent blinking, excessive rubbing, undue sensitivity to light, but rarely does the child voice a complaint. Without a basis for comparison, why should he think the out-of-focus, blurred or double images he sees should look any different? After all, that's the way he has always seen things.

Many parents, too, are falsely reassured by the fact that usually, in the first or second grade, a child will get his eyes tested in school—certainly still a very young age. But in the case of amblyopia (a common condition called "lazy eye," readily treated if found early enough), vision in the affected eye may already be permanently reduced.

Amblyopia often is the result of a weakness in the eye muscles which causes one eye to move independently of the other, thus producing a different image in each eye—or double vision. When this happens, the brain rejects the second image, thereby checking the use of the faulty eye. Then the child may see clearly, but with only one eye. If this is allowed to continue very long, the rejected eye becomes permanently weakened, and cannot later be brought back to full usefulness.

To guard against this, as well as a host of other common vision problems, the Mississippi Society for the Prevention of Blindness urges parents to have their children's eyes examined well before they enter school. No matter what the condition, the earlier it is detected—and treated, the better the chances of avoiding any learning or developmental problems. The best insurance is to have a child's eyes examined shortly after birth and again by age four, then on a periodic, regular basis through his growing years.

It is important for parents to be aware of some of the vision problems that can affect a growing child. Among the three-to-five-year age group, in Mississippi, one in 10 has some kind of eye problem; after they enter school, the incidence jumps to one out of every four. Such statistics underline the need for parents to play a more active role in protecting a youngster's eyesight.

A problem related to amblyopia is strabismus, or squint, when the eyes are not straight or properly aligned, but turn in (crossed eyes) or out (wall eyes), up or down. It may be due to birth injuries, heredity, faulty muscle attachments, excessive farsightedness, or certain illnesses. It is important to remember that it will not improve by itself, nor will it be outgrown. The eyes can only be straightened through professional treatment—by the use of glasses, patching, eye drops, surgery or eye exercises, singly or in combination.

Myopia and hyperopia, mentioned earlier, and astigmatism should also be diagnosed and corrected as early as possible to spare a child of the continuing burden of poor vision.

The Mississippi Society for the Prevention of Blindness conducts community preschool vision screenings geared to detecting eye problems among the preschool population. These screenings are significant because they direct attention to a possible vision problem and, in doing so alert parents to the need to have their children's eyes examined professionally.

The Mississippi Society offers an informative pamphlet, "Your Child's Sight, How You Can Help," which describes the signs that may indicate vision difficulties in young children. For a free copy, write Prevent Blindness, 115 Broadmoor Dr., Jackson, 39206.

Inventory of shipping carriers available

VICKSBURG—Each year an inventory of American commercial shipping vessels used in ocean trade and on inland waterways, is compiled and published in a three-part series by the Waterborne Commerce Statistics Center of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers' Lower Mississippi Valley Division.

The Center announced today that the 1975 edition of Transportation Series 5, "Transportation Lines on the Atlantic, Gulf and Pacific Coasts," consisting of 191 pages, is now available and may be purchased—payment with order—from the New Orleans Engineer District, ATTN: LMNED-S, P. O. Box 69087, New Orleans, Louisiana, 70160. Price is $2.

With this release two of the 3-part series are now available. Transportation Series 3, "Transportation Lines on the Great Lakes System, 1975" was released for sale on 8 August 1975. Transportation Series 4, "Transportation Lines on the Mississippi River System and the Gulf Intracoastal Waterway, 1975," is expected to be printed and available in about 30 days.

Undelivered refunds waiting taxpayers

JACKSON—Some 1,552 Mississippi taxpayers have undelivered refund checks waiting for them at the Internal Revenue Service.

Taxpayers who have not yet received their refund checks should call or visit their local IRS office as soon as possible, William Daniel, District Director of Internal Revenue for Mississippi, said today.

The dollar value of the undelivered refund checks totals $452,423.52 since this year's average refund amounts to $291.51. The most common reason for an undelivered refund check, according to Daniel, is that the taxpayer has moved and left no forwarding address with the U. S. Postal Service.

In cases where taxpayers suspect their check may have been lost or stolen, Daniel urged those persons to get in touch with the local IRS office as soon as possible so that the IRS can put a tracer on the missing check.

Some refunds may have been delayed because of errors or omissions on tax returns. Taxpayers affected should follow the instructions received from the IRS in order to speed up issuance of their checks.

Daniel stressed that in all refund inquiries to the IRS, the taxpayer should be prepared to provide the name and address as it appeared on the return, the actual name and address if different, the social security number, and the type of form filed.

While the IRS can now remain an undelivered refund check within thirty days to the new address, Daniel explained that after October 1, all undelivered checks are cancelled. The IRS must follow a more time-consuming procedure to issue checks in response to inquiries received after October 1.

Taxpayers in the Jackson area can contact the IRS by calling 948-4500. Persons in outlying areas may call toll free 1-800-222-8070.

Year of change

Many old line Democrats in the state, who did not find Cliff Finch attractive in the first or second primary, are apparently going to receive their true test of fire in November.

Already there is talk from the Winter camp that must bring a smile to the lips of Republican hopeful Gil Carmichael.

In a statement issued following Finch's strong finish in the Democrats second primary, black veteran civil rights leader Aaron Henry of Clarkdale said in a letter given statewide circulation that it would be difficult to remain loyal to the Democratic party following William Winter's defeat.

Henry, who said he personally could not support Finch against Winter because of his racist attitudes, said many loyal Democrats find themselves in a "real dilemma" as a result of the "vote" on Aug. 25.

Fayette Mayor Charles Evers, however, who supported Finch in the runoff said he would prefer "a converted segregationist or a converted racist anyway over a lifetime liberal" speaking of Winter.

Obviously the turmoil over the majority's choice in the Demo runoff has Carmichael supporters predicting the first Republican governor since Reconstruction days.

Carmichael said the August Democratic primaries showed the people of Mississippi "are fed up with the old political establishment and are demanding more from their government."

With Mississippi Democrats split and Republicans solid behind Carmichael, this could very well be the year the people vote a change.

Still standing

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Rene Bermond Sr. on Ballentine Street still stands, a tribute to its builder Jules Favre, and is still occupied by the Bermond family. Standing in front of the newly built house was (l-r) Frank Bermond, Duce Ploue, Jules Favre, and Mark Oliver.

Veterans Information

It was stated in this column last week that veterans 100 percent service connected disabled and those over 65 years of age were exempt from all ad valorem taxes. It seems that my source of information was in error and it should have read, "shall be exempt from any and all ad valorem taxes on homes, not in excess of $5,000.00 assessed value."

Public Law 93-647 passed by the 93rd Congress (effective Jan. 1, 1975) has directed that a child support program be established by each state. The purpose of the plan is to enforce the support obligations owed by absent parents to their children, locating absent parents and establishing paternity for children born out of wedlock, if possible.

This plan will enforce all court orders that have been handed down directing a parent pay child support. It will also make collections of all delinquent payments.

This legislation for the first time, permits the garnishment of retired and active duty pay of military personnel for enforcement of their responsibility to make child support and alimony payments.

If the location of a parent is unknown, after the state has failed to locate said parent, the Social Security Administration may be called upon to use their Parent Locator Service that will be established for that purpose.

In a case where there is no Court Order directing child support against an absent parent, the state agent or attorney of a state may determine the amount and collect for the support of the child when it is determined the parent or other person has a legal liability or responsibility to pay this support. A debt which is a child support obligation is not released by a discharge under the bankruptcy act.

Public Law 93-647 not only applies to retired and active duty personnel but to all parents and other persons who are liable for such child support.

Implementation of this plan is not expected for several months, by the State of Mississippi, but when it is, it will be published as Veterans Information.

See your County Service Officer, Chester L. Curvey in the Hancock Courthouse or call 467-5404 or 864-5259 for information regarding veterans affairs.

Bygone Days

FIVE YEARS AGO

A $2.8 million grant from the Economic Development Administration to the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission was announced jointly by U. S. Senators James Eastland, John Stennis and U. S. Representative William Colmer.

The monies were part of a $4.6 million public works package put together by the Port and Harbor Commission following Hurricane Camille.

TEN YEARS AGO

In preparation for the first of live rockets to be tested at the NASA facility, the Mississippi test facility raised a rocket simulator from a barge into a 200-foot tall static test tower. The exercise was designed to give the work crews experience in handling the live rockets that were scheduled to arrive in early October.

The test rocket measured 81 feet long and 33 feet in diameter and weighed 75,000 pounds.

25 YEARS AGO

The Pass Christian Mayor and board of aldermen passed an ordinance making the city marshal's job an appointive position.

The ordinance, which was introduced by fourth ward alderman Ralph Gordon, was in response to a controversy which saw one aspirant to the position file a suit in County Court.

50 YEARS AGO

The Bay St. Louis Rotary Club approved plans to organize a chamber of commerce for the city. The chamber was to function independently yet in cooperation with the Rotary Club.

The Rotary Club action was taken to provide a service for tourists coming into the area by rail and by auto.

The club appealed to the Chamber of Commerce Department at Washington for information on organizing the local chapter.

Guest Editorial

The price for faith

It's not the dawning of the millennium, but the trend toward full disclosure of personal finances and campaign contributions by candidates for public office in Mississippi holds great promise nonetheless. As practiced most recently and most completely by Republican gubernatorial hopeful Gil Carmichael, it allows the voters to see candidate's economic ties and the identity of his campaign contributors. That doesn't reveal everything about a candidate by a long shot, but it tells more than the usual carefully tailored television spot or stump speech.

As Carmichael put it, "As a private citizen, I don't enjoy laying out my personal finances for the public to see, but if we are going to restore faith in the political process, some of us must pay the price."

And that is exactly the point. Public service is a public trust, and the people have a right to know as much as possible about those who ask for their trust. Money may not call all the shots, but it calls many. As the old saying goes, "Where a man's money is, there is his heart," and the people deserve to know where their officials' hearts are.

But it is unfair to the Gil Carmichaels, who make full public disclosure, when others do not. Voluntary revelation is good as far as it goes, but it doesn't go far enough, since those who have something to hide will continue to hide it. The state needs a mandatory disclosure law for personal finances and contributions. As Carmichael said, that's the price for the restoration of faith in the political process, and everyone should pay it.

Social Security News

Students 18-22 years-old getting social security checks should report changes in their earnings, school enrollment, and marital status to social security, according to Charles E. Wofford, district manager in Gulfport.

Over 600,000 students 18 and over get monthly social security payments because a parent and disability or retirement benefits or has died. Students can continue to get payments to age 22 or slightly beyond for undergraduates as long as they remain full-time students and unmarried.

Students getting checks should notify social security immediately if they marry, leave school, or start at another school. This helps so we can stop their monthly payments as required by law," Wofford said.

Changes in total yearly earnings from part-time or temporary jobs can also affect social security payments to students, he said.

"If you're a student getting payments and expect your earnings for 1975 will be over $2,520, you should report that to social security," Wofford said. "Otherwise, you might get benefits you'll have to pay back later."

Social security payments are reduced by $1 for every $2 earned over $2,520 in a year. No matter how much they earn for the year, people can get their full social security payment for any month in which they neither earn $210 nor do substantial work in their own business.

Students getting social security payments should also report transfers from one school to another, according to Wofford.

"If you have questions about social security payments to students 18 and over, you can get answers by calling, writing, or visiting any social security office. The phone number is 806-1323."

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

He said, What's time? Leave Now for dogs and apes! Man has Forever! Now comes the Fall, with crisp nights and dreaming afternoons.

Did you ever look at a man? Preferably an old man, with firm cheeks and quiet eye, and try to envisage all the knowledge crowded so compactly into that pound of grey matter called the brain?

Do you remember the little beginnings of life, which were old secrets then, but new and shining to you, and have since become tired and commonplace again, and now with the dimness of memory shine and sparkle in the light of pristine knowledge. Do you remember when Schenley Park was a lovely expanse of trees and flowers, before the baseball team called the Pirates with Homs Wagner took it over? And do you remember the young men marching down the street on their way to the war in Cuba and the dreary finale of the big camp at Montauk Point? Does anyone remember the exploding ammunition wagons in the heart of Wall Street, or the campaigning of Gov. Al Smith for the Presidency, or the attempt of Jack Benny and his wife to smuggle valuable goods from Europe past the customs?

We can remember these and a thousand more trivialities. They all add up to one life. We saw recently a picture of the skeleton of a Chinese man 6,000 years old, a big skull that was crowded with trivia, too, and that also was a life. The world isn't big enough for all the memories of dogs and apes; that's why man has forever!

Today is our birthday. We have a skull-full of memories, from all over the world. We dump them all on the table: some shine and glitter, some are dull and care-worn. We pick out the ones that appeal most to us now, but, oddly enough, some of the most glitteriest seem commonplace today; some trifling episode of eighty years ago is fresh as a star.

Soon all will be erased. Yet, as each new day brings new memories of good and bad, of importance and trivia to pack into a crowded cranium, we remember and relate each happening sharply, and remember days that have gone by. And dream and dream—that I am home again!

County Agent's Notes

DRAIN MANURE SPOTS
Don't let manure piles ruin the looks and quality of your pastures. Grass grows up tall and tough around the manure piles. Cattle will pass up these spots of tall grass in favor of young tender fast growing grass.

By dragging and spreading these manure piles you not only get rid of unsightly clumps, but you also help build up the pasture's fertility.

Use a harrow, several old tires chained together or any other drag to evenly spread the manure.

KEEP HOGS COOL
You can really get into trouble if you do not keep your breeding hog cool during hot summer weather. One result of breeding hogs that get too hot is small litters or small pigs.

Failure to keep boars and gilts cool also causes breeding problems that make conception more difficult.

Breeding animals on pasture should have access to plenty of shade and those in confinement should have the sprinkler on.

HOW DO YOU pay off the WAR of Independence?

Our horses were running out of oats. Our soldiers, out of bullets. And the revolution out of steam.

We needed some money fast, but the Continental Congress had no power to tax. So we asked investors to pitch in. And they did. With over 27 million dollars.

Today, it costs even more to keep things running, to hold onto the freedom we won. And the way to pitch in now is through U.S. Savings Bonds.

And when you buy Bonds, you're not only helping your country, you're helping yourself.

Just sign up for the automatic Payroll Savings Plan at work.

Or buy Bonds at your bank.

U.S. Savings Bonds. A great way to keep our country, and you, in the running.

Now U.S. Bonds pay 4% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4 1/2% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

British brain scanner permits early detection

JACKSON, Miss. - In less time than it takes to get a haircut, the new EMI Scanner at the University of Mississippi Medical Center can photograph the smallest physical sign of brain disease.

It makes early detection easier, so helps increase the likelihood of successful treatment for hundreds of Mississippians suffering from brain tumors, blood clots and strokes, according to a UMC neuroradiologist.

Injections with air, opaque substances and radioactive materials are among other standard diagnostic methods. They're painful and sometimes costly because they often require a hospital stay.

In less than 30 minutes, with no injections and no discomfort to the patient, two of three trained technicians can complete a brain examination on the EMI Scanner and have the diagnostic data ready for the physician within minutes. And the patient is spared the high cost of hospital care.

The new system, the only one of its kind in the state, was purchased with $400,000 from a special appropriation approved by the 1974 state legislature.

Developed by EMI Limited of Middlesex, England, the scanner uses a radically new and highly sensitive technique which provides up to 100 times more information than standard x-rays, but no more exposure to radiation.

Conventional x-rays can't detect an abnormality unless it's comparatively thick. And since the x-ray film shows a three-dimensional object in a two-dimensional photograph, it's possible for a tumor or cyst to be hidden by other brain tissue. The new system defines and locates even minute brain lesions in three dimensions, the physician said.

The patient lies in a reclining chair, the skull portion of the head placed inside what looks like a front-loading washing machine.

The EMI Scanner takes pictures, 160 for each degree in a semicircle, as it rotates around the patient's head, converting readings into electronic form which are fed into a minicomputer. The results show up on a viewer similar to a television screen. They can be examined in 30 seconds or photographed for later reference.

The computer, capable of 43,000 equations simultaneously, also gives a numerical printout showing x-ray absorption values. A tumor, for example, will absorb more or less radiation than normal tissue, and the variations will be indicated on the computer sheet.

"The EMI scanner has distinct advantages over almost every other means of determining brain disease," the UMC radiologist said.

Much Mississippi Acreage Planted In Small Grains

MISSISSIPPI STATE — A considerable acreage of small grain is planted in Mississippi each fall. Much of this acreage is planted with rye, which is planted for grazing. Some is planted alone for grazing and grain and still some additional acreage is for grain only.

Wheat for grain is grown throughout the state. Mississippi's acreage harvested for grain is quite variable, depending on the market outlook and fall planting conditions, says Dr. Charles Baskin, agronomist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

The acreage of oats has declined considerably in the past few years. Oats are not as winter hardy as wheat. Extremely cold winter periods in the early 60's destroyed large acreages of oats throughout the state. This caused farmers to shift to the more cold tolerant grains — wheat and rye, informs the agronomist.

Diseases have always been a problem with small grains. Rust on oats and wheat is probably the most common disease. These disease organisms change rather rapidly and in a relatively few years grain varieties that were resistant become susceptible to rust. This problem keeps the breeders busy trying to keep resistant varieties on the market. "So," says Dr. Baskin, "we see a big turnover in variety recommendations for small grains."

In the last two or three years Septoria has become a problem in wheat, particularly in south Mississippi. Some varieties made no grain at all because of the disease. There are two forms (species) of Septoria. One attacks the leaves and the other attacks the head of the wheat. They are more commonly referred to as Septoria leaf blotch and Septoria glume blotch, respectively. The glume blotch is the organism that has been the more serious of the two. It has affected wheat in areas throughout the state, but has been more of a problem in the southern areas. Where this disease is severe, grain is light or fails to develop at all and yields may be near zero, warns Dr. Baskin.

None of our present wheat varieties have good resistance to Septoria glume blotch. All varieties recommended have only fair tolerance. When weather conditions are favorable for disease development, yields will be reduced.

Powdery mildew is also a problem on wheat in the southern part of the state when weather conditions are favorable for development.

Where diseases on wheat have been a problem, farmers might consider oats for grain, suggests Dr. Baskin. Recommended small grain varieties are as follows: wheat — Abe, Arthur 71, Coker 68-15, McNair 4823, and Oasis; oats — Coker 227, Coker 234, Coronado, Cortez and Fla. 501; and, rye — ACCO 811, Abruzzi, Explorer, McNair Vitagrazo, Weser and Wintergrazer 70.

should be subsoiled, chisel plowed or moldboarded to break the pans. Plow as near on the contour as possible to reduce erosion.

• Check lime and fertilizer needs and apply lime ahead of or between plowings during seedbed preparation. Apply the fertilizer as needed at planting time. On low testing soils apply not less than 60 pounds of nitrogen, phosphate and potash each at or just before planting.

• Topdress with nitrogen in late fall and again in early spring to insure rapid growth during favorable periods for it.

• Where overseeding rye grass on summer pasture is planned, double disk, fertilize and seed in late September or North Mississippi and mid-October for South Mississippi. Hard pan soils should be chisel plowed and then disked lightly until a smooth seedbed is achieved. Overseeded areas can usually be grazed when prepared seedbed areas are too boggy.

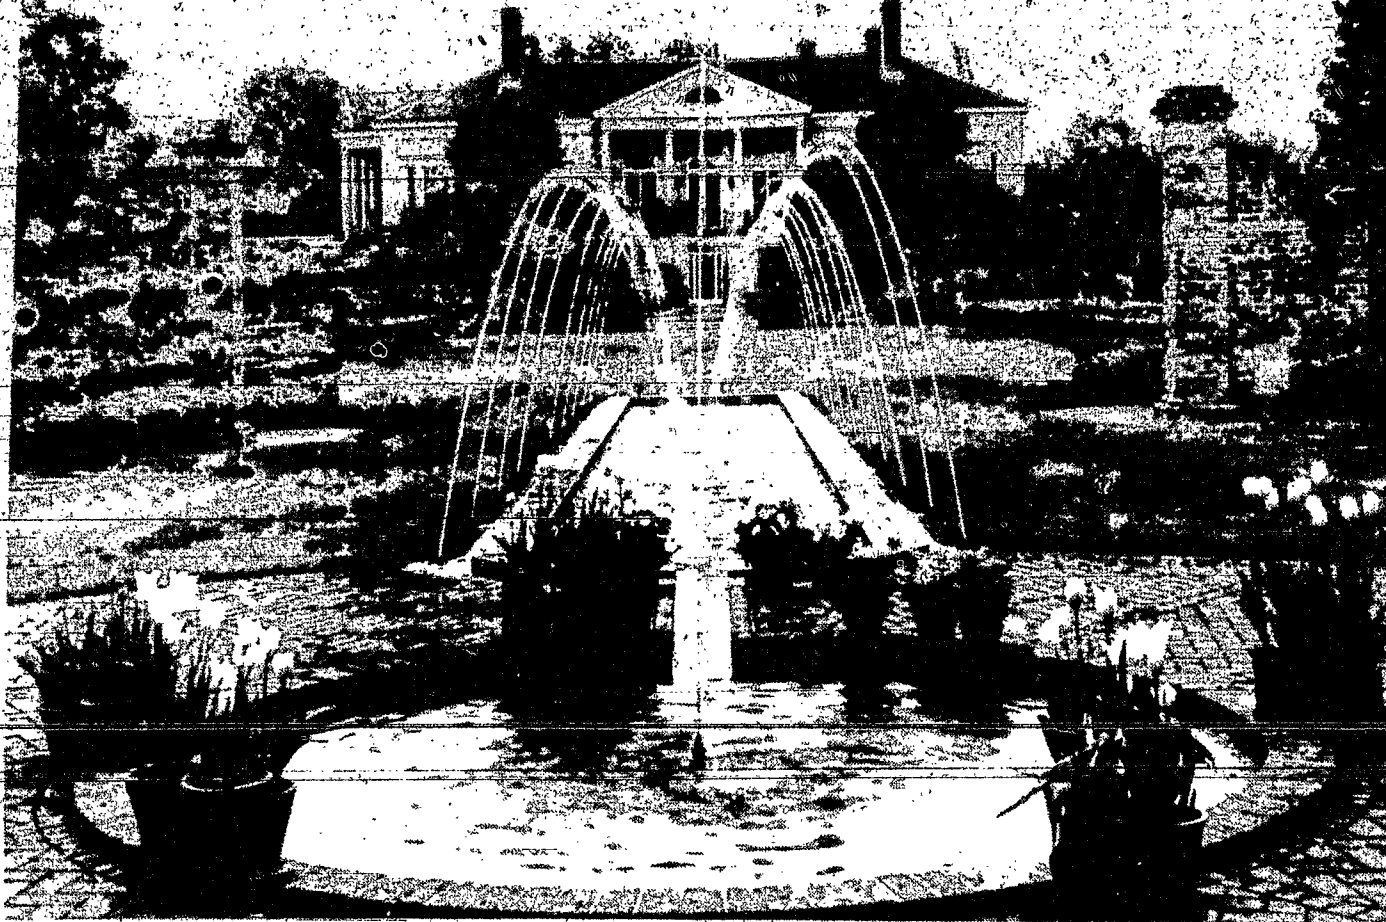

These are just a few suggestions for getting more from winter grazing crops," says Dr. Anderson. "Let your county Extension agent help you with detailed plans."

Specialist Suggests Ways For Winter Grazing Success

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Select the right soil, then lime and fertilize for winter grazing success.

With the price advantage going to heavier feeder cattle, more farmers are making plans to winter light calves. Light calves require quality feed to survive, grow and fatten during winter months. Ryegrass and winter cereals make the best quality forage for winter feeder calves.

Dr. Kelton Anderson, leader, agronomy department, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, says the following principle decisions will help insure success:

Elegant precision

The famed Longue Vue Gardens, its fountains and finely manicured lawns present a picture of elegant precision. The Gardens will reopen to the public this month after a two-month redecoration project.

Longue Vue Gardens reopens to public

Louisiana's famed Longue Vue Gardens will again be open to the public for touring starting September 16 after two months of redesigning and planting. Many activities are scheduled to launch the season's grand opening.

September 14, the Friends of Longue Vue will be given an open house preview of the newly refurbished grounds, along with an exhibit of metal Louisiana Wild Flower sculptures by Trailer McQuitkin. Also on the agenda for this event will be Square Dancing.

September 20 and 21, the Greater New Orleans Bonsai Society will exhibit in the gardens their exotic collection for public viewing.

Longue Vue is an eight-acre private estate, minutes from downtown New Orleans. This estate garden is now operated as a nonprofit foundation.

The gardens include arching fountains, pebble-mosaic walks, and a variety of plants from all over the world. Five smaller gardens surround the Spanish Court, inspired by the Generalife Gardens of the Alhambra in Granada, Spain.

Another interesting garden of Longue Vue is the Wild Garden, where native Louisiana plants and trees were brought in from the woods to create a wilderness effect in an otherwise formal setting. Wild azaleas, swamp iris and Magnolias complete this typical Southern scene.

The Walled Garden changes its personality with the seasons. In the fall, the Chrysanthemum and its brilliant colors fill the scene.

During the winter months tulips of various colors cover the garden. Delphinium follows in the spring and casts shades of purples and blues that will remain until the return of fall.

The film Great Gardens of Louisiana is shown continuously in the playhouse to visiting guests. The film gives the history of Longue Vue and four other state gardens.

Retirement bonds placed on sale

WASHINGTON — The Department of the Treasury has placed on sale U. S. Individual Retirement Bonds.

They are specifically designed for investment by persons who lack coverage by any other retirement plan.

They are sold at face value in denominations of $50, $100 and $500. Interest accrues at the rate of six percent per year, compounded semiannually, and is payable upon redemption.

Individual Retirement Bonds may be purchased from any Federal Reserve Bank or Branch, or directly from the Treasury Department. They may be registered in either single ownership or beneficiary form, in the names of natural persons only. Individual Retirement Bonds are nontransferable; they cannot be sold or used as collateral.

The new Bonds permit persons, who work for employers unable to finance a pension plan, to set aside a portion of their annual income up to a yearly limit of $1,500, or 15 percent of gross income for retirement. The amount set aside annually is deductible from gross income for federal income tax purposes.

Because they are designed to be used for personal retirement, the bonds carry certain redemption restrictions. During the first year after issue, they may be redeemed without interest or penalty. They may be cashed, with a tax penalty, until the owner reaches age 59½, after which the Bonds may be redeemed without penalty.

The bonds may, however, be cashed without penalty, at any time until maturity, for the purpose of changing investments.

In addition, they may be cashed without penalty before age 59½, in cases of disability. The maturity date is the first day of the month in which the Bond owner reaches age 70½ or five years after the date of the owner's death.

Both principal and interest are reportable for federal income tax purposes, at time of redemption or maturity.

Make Meal Planning Easy Use Prepared Frozen Foods

Meal planning is easier when your freezer is stocked with prepared foods such as frozen soups, main dishes, breads and desserts. Selecting prepared foods for freezing can be as simple as deciding to freeze today's planned biscuits for tomorrow's lunch or as involved as freezing an entire meal for next week's lunch or dinner party.

"Consider freezing those prepared foods which will taste good and keep good quality after a reasonable storage time," suggests Mrs. Kimbrough, foods and nutrition specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Freezing food may not always save time but it does let you choose a convenient time for food preparation and helps prevent many last-minute chores at meal time.

Reminiscent of Mrs. Kimbrough, "It takes as long or longer to heat a frozen casserole as it does to prepare and mix the ingredients and bake it. More time and labor are involved in making and packaging quick breads for freezing than in baking them fresh as needed. Nevertheless, you may decide the convenience of having these foods ready to thaw and serve on busy days makes the effort of freezing them worthwhile."

To make your minutes in the kitchen count, Mrs. Kimbrough suggests the following:

• Prepare and freeze individual diet foods, party foods and foods for packed lunches.

• Double or triple your favorite recipe to prepare enough food for several meals.

• Include extra amounts of meat in the package.

Clean Up Mississippi Campaign Staged In Effort To Wipe Out Encephalitis

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Life of the encephalitis-carrying mosquito will become more difficult after Sept. 6.

That's the day of the big Clean Up Mississippi campaign, a statewide effort to rid the state of breeding places for mosquitoes.

"The first step in reducing mosquito numbers in the state is to get rid of their breeding places, and that's what we want everyone to do Saturday, Sept. 6," said Dr. Alton Cobb, state health officer, in announcing the campaign. "Most homeowners are creating their own mosquito problems by allowing conditions to exist around their home and farm that are ideal for mosquitoes to breed and multiply in," he added.

Cooperating with the State Health Department in the massive statewide clean up effort are the Cooperative Extension Service, Municipal Mayors Association, Association of County Supervisors, "Mississippi ETV Network," plus many other organizations and agencies.

Dr. W. M. Bost, director, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, has pledged the full support of the state and area specialists and county Extension personnel in conducting the drive to reduce the spread of encephalitis in the state.

"Health officials and other agencies are doing everything possible to curb this outbreak. Community spraying, however, is only part of the solution," said Dr. Bost. "Every person must do his part by cleaning up around his home, farm or place of business to get rid of mosquito-breeding places."

Dr. Cobb said that homeowners should first clean up all breeding places, and then begin to control mosquitoes by other means.

"Mosquitoes breed in quiet water such as pools, stagnant water or other water with high organic matter. Wiggle tails, or young mosquitoes cannot live out of water. It is in these places that mosquitoes develop from larvae into adults. So, in order to kill the next generation of mosquitoes and to prevent over population, we must stop them before they become a problem," Dr. Cobb added.

He outlined a 10-point program for homeowners to follow to prevent mosquito breeding and the spread of encephalitis:

1. Empty and turn upside down or throw away any container on your property that holds water.
2. Spray or treat mosquito-breeding areas (privies, stagnant sewage, wastewater drains, culverts) with No. 2 fuel oil or kerosene. Drain standing water, if possible.
3. Cover rain barrels, tanks, and cisterns with fine mesh screen wire.
4. Repair or replace damaged screens on doors and windows.
5. Cover openings in floors, walls and doors.
6. Keep grass and weeds cut.
7. Make sure garbage cans are tightly covered.
8. Wear protective clothing outside in the late afternoon and night.
9. Use insect repellent before going outdoors in late afternoon and night.
10. Stay indoors at night whenever possible.

"The encephalitis epidemic is growing and unless every citizen makes an individual effort to control mosquitoes, the victim rate will be tremendous," stated Dr. Bost. "A one-time spraying effort is useless. Our combat programs must be continuous because mosquito-breeding continues throughout the warm months of the year. There are several warm months yet, so we may not have yet felt or realized the potential danger of an epidemic of this type," stressed Dr. Bost.

For additional information, including detailed recommendations on spraying, chemicals to use, and other combative measures, contact your county Extension agent's office or county health department.

Annual Tri-State Sing Convention Set

The largest gathering of Gospel Singers in the South, The Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi Tri-State Singing Convention will meet in Bogalusa, Louisiana, on Saturday night and all day Sunday, September 6th and 7th in the Bogalusa High School Auditorium.

This Gospel Singing gathering was organized in Bogalusa in September, 1940 by the Bogalusa Chamber of Commerce and Gospel Singer, Videt Polk, of Baton Rouge, Louisiana. It has continued to grow year after year and perhaps the foremost promoter other than Mr. Polk is the Mayor of Bogalusa, Louis Rawls.

Mayor Rawls will be present both Saturday night and Sunday to welcome the visitors and the former Mayor of New Orleans, Vic Schiro will give the response to the Welcome address.

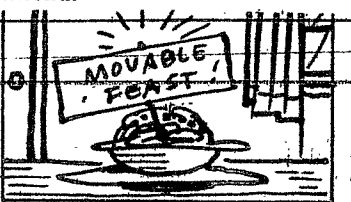

The convention will be inderway Saturday night, September 6th at 8:00 P.M. and this session of the Singing will be known as Quartet Night featuring many of the South's leading Quartets: The Bibletone Quartet; The Envoys Quartet; The Harris Family Quartet and many others.

The Sunday all day singing will begin at 10:00 A.M. and close at 3:00 P.M. featuring about 400 Singers and Quartets. Assisting Videt Polk, President of the Convention will be Dave L. Pearce, Dick O'Neal, Lawson Schillings, Larry Nastasi, L.A. Reveire and Anthony Nastasi.

Election of Officers for the next two years will be held on Sunday with all attending the convention taking part. Singers from all sections of Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Texas and other States will take part.

All singers and lovers of Gospel Music are invited to attend.

CLEAN OUT THOSE GUTTERS — James H. Cochran, entomologist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, is trying to help rid the state of the encephalitis-carrying mosquito by cleaning out the gutters on his home. Mississippians will be following his example on Saturday, Sept. 6, as the Clean Up Mississippi campaign, a statewide effort to rid the state of breeding places for mosquitoes, gets under way. ## State Cotton Crop May Fall Below Estimated Yield Figure MISSISSIPPI STATE — The 1975 Mississippi cotton crop was estimated at 1,125,000 acres for harvest with a projected 1.3 million bales for a $55 pounds per acre average yield.

This projection compares with 1,710,000 acres harvested in 1974, with 1,595,000 bales for an average of 448 pounds per acre. The five year average, including the disastrous 1974, is 585 pounds, states Dr. George Mullendore, agronomist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

With recent prolonged rainfall, many Mississippi cotton people feel that acreage harvested will fall below the present estimate, for both acreage and yield, says the agronomist. Rainfall has been extremely helpful in maintaining cotton growth, but unfortunately grass and weeds have also grown and have presented problems for producers.

"August is always a busy month in cotton production but even more so in 1975," states Dr. Mullendore. "Our crop is about one month later than normal and insects are more of a problem. Rains have prevented producers from either applying insecticides and ovicides on schedule, or have had them washed off the plants too soon," he continues.

Dr. Mullendore says, "Final production per acre and acreage harvested depends on weather conditions from now through harvest. It is more important than ever to have a late, open fall," he concludes.

Grants Will Fund Citizenship Program For State 4-H'ers

MISSISSIPPI STATE — "Citizenship In Action" is a program which will enable 4-H groups to experiment with new ways of demonstrating social responsibility.

Grants ranging from $50 to $500 will be awarded for innovative and relevant citizenship programs which show community concern and contribute to community development, states Jim Yonge, 4-H youth development specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"Citizenship In Action" programs must be related directly to citizenship learning. Each should be a group effort with older and younger members participating and adults serving as advisors, says Yonge.

Proposed projects should be more than just service activities, states the specialist. "They must include meaningful and realistic objectives enabling youth to learn and practice better citizenship. The programs should be separate but supportive of ongoing 4-H projects and activities," he continues.

Hooper Nominated To TVA Board

President Ford's nomination of Mississippi farmer James Hooper to the TVA board of directors shows the President did his homework well concerning the role of TVA in American life, the president of the Mississippi Farm Bureau Federation, Hugh M. Arant, said in Jackson Friday.

Earlier the federation's 20-member board of directors from all areas of the state endorsed the Hooper nomination and strongly urged the U. S. Senate and Public Works Committee to confirm the choice.

Arant said, "Mr. Hooper's background of 30 years as a dairy and tree farmer, together with his background in water resources management and his long efforts to establish the Tennessee-Tombigbee Water Development Authority, make his career a striking parallel to the purposes of the TVA act."

The act calls for improvement of navigability and provision for flood control of the Tennessee River, provision for reforestation and the proper use of marginal lands in the Tennessee Valley, and to provide for the agricultural and industrial development of that valley.

"Perhaps even more important," Arant said, "Mr. Hooper, of Columbus, will be the only 'agriculturist' on the board, which is significant in view of the role TVA performs in fertilizer and other agricultural development."

TVA has had a major role in the development of 90 percent of all commercial fertilizers from its Muscle Shoals, Alabama research facility. Today these fertilizers substantially contribute to 40 percent of the total food and fiber production of the United States.

"Without this agricultural emphasis through TVA," Arant said, "I shudder to think where the national economy would be today. TVA has conducted research and development of these fertilizers, field tested them in cooperation with land grant colleges, and rendered technical assistance to farmers that in recent years has brought about a drastic turnaround in foreign balance of payments so necessary to our national economy."

"With Mr. Hooper's appointment about to go to the U. S. Senate," Arant concluded, "it would certainly be best for the national interest if critics would not resort to nit-picking or regional or professional prejudices, and accept a logical, much needed choice by President Ford to help manage TVA affairs."

Buckley explained that closer culling of cow herds not only can improve the overall economic situation more quickly, it can help producers improve herd quality, reduce feed and other costs and increase flexibility of operations.

He suggested that cattle-men consult with Extension personnel on options which include cow numbers while still maintaining cash flow. For example, a cow/calf operator can cull more cows now and retain some of his calves as yearlings. Then, during the second year, he has the flexibility of putting more heifers back into his herd. A cow/yearling operator might consider reducing cow numbers and backgrounding the yearlings for an additional period.

The cows he could cull would be those that are open (to be determined by pregnancy testing), old and broken-mouth cows, those with spoiled udders and cows that produce lightweight, poor quality calves.

Cattle Herds Must Be Culled For Supply-Demand Balance

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Total cattle numbers may get back into balance with beef demand more quickly than some previous forecasts have indicated. To reach this balance, beef cattle producers must cull their cow herds closely during the remainder of 1975 and on through 1976.

"Beef cattle experts are urging heavy cow slaughter now while supplies of pork and poultry are down and before expected increases in volume of other meats materialize," said R. O. Buckley, livestock specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

He said that a continuation of the currently increased rate of cow slaughter may result in improvement in the cattle industry's economic situation in 1976 and 1977. Otherwise, the total cow herd may not return to a reasonable relationship with demand at least until 1978.

"For the past three years," Buckley said, "the cow herd has grown about twice as rapidly as necessary to keep up with growth in beef demand. The resulting excessive cattle numbers, along with extreme inflation of feed and other costs, have resulted in severe economic distress in all segments of the industry.

"Economics" eventually will bring an adjustment in cow herd size, just as has happened in previous cattle numbers cycles. The question is whether cattlemen will make individual decisions now which will add up to a more orderly adjustment period, or whether the current disastrous situation will be extended over a prolonged period. It is important to the public as well as the industry that we get back to more stable supply and price situations as soon as possible," he pointed out.

Recent USDA reports he continued, show that numbers of heifers for cow herd replacement are 7 percent less than a year earlier. Also, January-June cow slaughter, totaling 4.6 million head, not only was 47 percent more than a year earlier, but also was 200,000 head larger than earlier projections for 1975 had indicated.

If cow slaughter during the last half of the year is 5 million head or more, the total cow herd on Jan. 1, 1976, may be down by three-fourth to one million head from Jan. 1, 1975, total of 56.6 million head. Furthermore, if cow slaughter continues at a record level in 1976, and if heifer replacements are not excessive, the total cow herd may get back in line with population and income growth by 1977.

Buckley explained that closer culling of cow herds not only can improve the overall economic situation more quickly, it can help producers improve herd quality, reduce feed and other costs and increase flexibility of operations.

He suggested that cattle-men consult with Extension personnel on options which include cow numbers while still maintaining cash flow. For example, a cow/calf operator can cull more cows now and retain some of his calves as yearlings. Then, during the second year, he has the flexibility of putting more heifers back into his herd. A cow/yearling operator might consider reducing cow numbers and backgrounding the yearlings for an additional period.

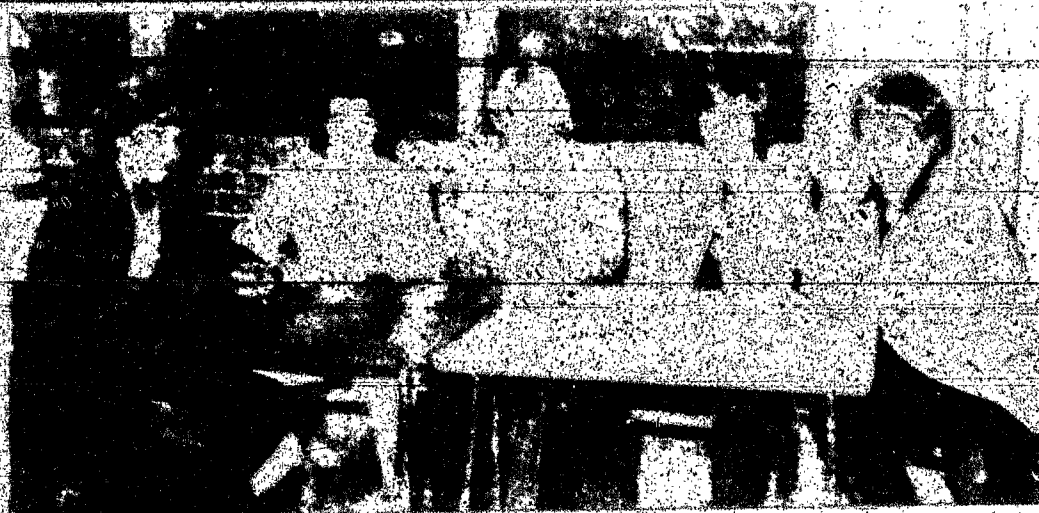

In the Delches it is necessary to have the image of the god of iron in the smithy or the soul of metal will depart during the forging and it will become brittle and unworkable.

What you should do if a tornado strikes

The tornado - earth's most extreme wind force - spawns inside severe thunderstorms. The Latin derivative means "to turn" and tornadoes do just that. Their 300 mile an hour winds spin around a vortex of total vacuum exploding closed-up structures like bombs in the wake of the worst thing to hit the South since Sherman's blue coats.

Spring-time's spinning local disasters don't always warn of their approach with slack winds and coppery skies, says the Insurance Information Institute. They can drop suddenly out of any storm front, fooling detection by observers or radar almost until they strike. If you hear a Weather Service Tornado Warning, rushed on your radio or television, or if you see the distinct silhouette of a twister bearing down upon you, you may have only minutes to save your life.

There's just one life-saving measure available as a twister bears down upon you says the Institute. That's, shelter, preferably below ground and away from windows or glass walls.

A storm cellar or cave with an outlet to bleed off the pressure drop caused by a twister provides the best protection. An unsecured house trailer provides the least. Even small storms have tossed mobile homes about like cars on a toy train, crushing inhabitants in the aluminum and plywood wreckage.

To prevent loss of life and minimize destruction in the event that a tornado strikes a mobile home park, the Insurance Information Institute recommends that mobile homes be positioned so that they're turned into prevailing winds, with the least possible amount of wall area exposed to the wind's force. Trailers should be secured with anchors or tie-downs. Trees should be planted as wind breakers, or the units positioned to take advantage of other natural windbreaks. Even with all these precautions, mobile home occupants are well advised to seek shelter in more substantial dwellings if a twister approaches.

If you're at work, take shelter in the nearest sturdiest building. A steel-framed or reinforced concrete structure is best. Avoid structures with large area roofs such as warehouses, theaters or gyms, because they may collapse. Also, avoid concrete block structures. These are usually blown apart by a tornado.

Stand against interior walls or hallways on the lowest floor of the building. Upper stories often are sheared away. Seek shelter out of the direct line of windows and glass walls which may shatter. If you have time, open windows and doors facing away from the direction of the storm's approach. If a tornado strikes while you're at home, the basement is the safest place to be, the Institute notes. If your home has no basement, seek nearby shelter. Otherwise, stay in the center part of the dwelling against inside walls. First-floor closets and bathrooms, sometimes left standing when a house or apartment complex is struck, may provide protection. Even sturdy furniture, such as heavy table or piano, can shelter you from collapsing walls and falling trees. Curl up and shield your head and eyes with your arms.

In open country or on the highway, you can out-drive a tornado if you can travel at least 50 miles an hour at right angles to the storm's northward march. If escape seems unlikely, get out of your car and get away from it. Run back toward the approaching storm and lie in a ditch or the nearest hollow. Your car itself can become a deadly missile in the grasp of a tornado. If no shelter is near, lie flat on the ground, face down, shielding your head and neck with your arms.

The Insurance Information Institute offers a few long-range precautions for those living in storm-prone country.

Keep important papers, including insurance policies, titles, wills and other records in a safe place where they're not apt to be damaged by water, wind, or fire, but where they can be easily retrieved.

With your important papers keep an up-to-date list of personal items, such as jewelry, clothing, cameras and firearms, together with an up-to-date property inventory. Store a flashlight, portable radio with spare batteries and a first-aid kit in a corner of your basement or in your "storm closet." That way you'll have them when you most need them and won't have to gather supplies up as a storm approaches.

Tornadoes can strike with the force of a flight of bomber planes. They also may hit any part of the Southeast with little warning. A little preparation now, says the Institute, can prevent a lot of grief after a spring windstorm hits.

END PART TWO: Next week - how to dig out and begin putting your community in order after spring tornadoes strike. (PRN)

Conference On Hospital Scheduled

Hospital executives, trustees, attorneys, and physicians will meet in Jackson on September 23-24 to attend a Conference on Hospital and Medical Staff Bylaws. The conference will be sponsored by the Mississippi Hospital Association and conducted by the staff of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals. The Joint Commission is based in Chicago and is concerned with improving clinical standards and evaluating patient care in individual hospitals.

According to C. Chandler

Clover, executive director of the Women's Hospital, Jackson, and chairman of the MHA Board of Governors, the conference is expected to attract 100 registrants from multiple states. "The program is directed towards developing and implementing bylaws that expedite the delivery of quality patient care," explained Clover.

Clover pointed out that in addition to MHA sponsoring the conference, other cosponsors include the Mississippi Association of Hospital Governing Boards and the MHA Society of Hospital Attorneys.

The state motor vehicle comptroller's office has already received several requests to furnish civic organizations Bicentennial tags so that the respective organizations can sell them to the general public for $1 each. Motor Vehicle Comptroller Bob Sharpe said that all civic organizations, service clubs, and tax collectors within the State of Mississippi are eligible to sell the Bicentennial tags.

These organizations will be required as specified in House Bill 1010 to purchase the tags directly from the motor vehicle comptroller for 50 cents per plate. Sharpe said that interested parties should make their requests in writing to the Motor Vehicle Comptroller, P. O. Box 1140, Jackson, MS. 39205. The request should include the name of the organization, the name and phone number of an officer of that organization, the number of tags requested, and advance payment for the number of tags requested. Sharpe also said that requesting organizations must make arrangements to have the tags picked up and that no Bicentennial tags would be mailed.

Mississippi Sportsmen Pay For Wildlife Enhancement Program

MISSISSIPPI STATE - The sportsmen of the United States are serious about promoting wildlife conservation. Last year, 43.5 million sportsmen, paid over $270 million for state hunting and fishing licenses, reports Ross Shelton, wildlife specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. In addition, they paid $75 million in excise taxes on ammunition, sporting arms and fishing supplies. These two sources provide practically all of the funding for state fish and wildlife enhancement programs which include non-game and endangered species programs.

During 1974, in Mississippi, 16,397,367 hunters (an increase of 888,055 over 1973) spent approximately $143 million for state licenses, tags, permits and stamps. During this same time period, 27,080,305 fishermen spent more than $127 million for licenses, tags, permits and stamps - an increase of 868,304 fishermen.

Since 1923, through licensing and excise taxes, hunters and fishermen have contributed more than $4.6 billion dollars to state fish and wildlife agencies for their important work, states Shelton. "There is no segment of our society that has contributed more to manage and conserve our fish and wildlife resources than these hunters and fishermen," concludes Shelton.

Older Americans Must Adjust To Retirement Life Changes

MISSISSIPPI STATE - What does retirement mean to you? One woman said it meant simply twice as much husband and half as much money. This might be the feeling of a great many women and men whose life styles have been described as being decreed by one half of the population and welcomed by the other.

To some 20 million people who are 65 years of age and older, as well as to those who retired early, the retirement experience has meant emotional adjustment in addition to economic conditions, states Miss. David McGinty, family life specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. As with most life-changing situations, retirement has spawned a variety of philosophies as well as living styles.

To some people, savoring leisure time is anathema, and they find that organized activities, such as a job, are vital to their well-being. Employment may also be promoted by financial considerations. According to government estimates, of the 7.5 million families headed by a person 65 or older, 1.5 million have incomes below $4,137, states Miss McGinty. Whatever their reasons, some retirees turn to part-time positions. Others may become self-employed or turn to temporary help agencies, some of which offer free brush-up courses in mechanical and clerical skills for persons of retirement age. Others find satisfaction and fulfillment in working as volunteers in helpful programs, such as reading for the blind programs, Vista Volunteer projects, or remedial teaching activities. Many become involved in any number of volunteer programs in their own communities.

Some older Americans have found challenge and satisfaction in painting, sculpting, doing metal work, making cabinets, creative writing, skills self-sharpened in their leisure time or learned in adult education classes or senior citizens programs.

"There are also those who have discovered that the secret of successful retirement is not how to keep busy after 65 but how to learn to contemplate, to do nothing, thereby cultivating the capacity to celebrate and contemplate," states Miss McGinty. "One such individual was recently identified by his grandson to a young friend as an old gentleman who sits and thinks a lot and keeps Mother from hitting me," she concludes.

Our customers are asking -

Why, when we've been on vacation, doesn't the electric bill go down?

Your electric bill is based on the number of kilowatt-hours of electricity you actually used. This is measured each month. When your family is away from home for a couple of days or for several weeks, you probably will use less electricity than when you're at home. But this does not necessarily mean that the amount of your electric bill will be lower than the previous month.

Lots of us go on vacation during the summer. In the summer, our use of electricity generally is double the amount used at other times of the year. In those homes that are air-conditioned. Because of increased usage while you are home, you can actually use more kilowatt-hours than in the previous month.

Your refrigerator and freezer still have to operate, even with the family gone. And these appliances may run longer than normal with the air conditioning off and the temperature of the home higher than usual.

Also, in many instances, the time a family is away from home falls within two meter reading and billing periods, rather than one. This means that any decrease in use would split between two electric bills. So it wouldn't be as noticeable as it would be if the full effect were shown on one bill.

People who are about to leave for vacation often use more electricity for last minute cleaning, washing and drying. When they get back, there's usually another flurry of washing and drying.

So a vacation may not have as big an effect on the electric bill as one might think.

We are grateful for the opportunity to serve you and want to know of and answer any questions you have about your electric service.

Retirees receive tax advice

Members of the National Association of Retired Federal Employees, Chapter 209, were given advice on income taxes by Albert Ragusin of the Internal Revenue Service at their meeting at Friendship House in Gulfport Thursday, Aug. 21.

Ragusin told the members that it would make a difference in their annuity or tax credits if they elected "optional" rather than "disability" retirement when separating from the service. He said that they could change their status by filing a tax form 9401 at the IRS office.

In April 1974 the Internal Revenue Service ruled that "sick pay" exclusion, which permits $100 per week ($5200 per year) tax credits for disabled workers or retirees, would be applicable until mandatory rather than optional retirement age, Ragusin said.

The speaker also said that so-called "wrong way" retirees could change their status from "optional" to "disability" if they could prove they were medically disabled at the time of their separation from service.

Forestry commission to purchase pine cones

Mississippi Forestry Commission District Forester Ross Sherman of Wiggins announced that the Commission would purchase pine cones again this year. He said that the Southeast District would purchase 3,500 bushels of Slash Pine cones.

According to Sherman, "only mature and quality pine cones would be accepted." Tests have been run periodically to determine when the cones are ripe and ready to be gathered. These tests show that the cones are now ready to be gathered.

Sherman pointed out that the Forestry Commission will pay $2.50 per bushel for Slash cones. Clubs or groups could collect pine cones for fund raising projects. If any organization, club group, or individual would like to collect pine cones, they should contact County Forester Michael R. Williams at the Agriculture Building on Necaise Avenue or telephone 255-7152 for information regarding collection and purchasing.

Ole Miss-Baylor clash marks earliest Rebel start

UNIVERSITY, Miss. - Ready or not, Ole Miss gets its 1975 football campaign underway Saturday night with a game against Baylor's defending Southwest Conference champions.

The Rebels will travel to Waco where they have never played for their first game with the Bears.

It's also the earliest game in Ole Miss football history. The starting hour for the Baylor stadium is 7:30 p.m.

Reb football with SWC members dates back to 1908 and a game with Arkansas. Their record book lists 41 games against the Hogs and teams from Texas of Southwest Conference vintage, a 20-21 overall record.

Every SWC member, save Baylor and Texas Tech, has appeared on an Old Miss schedule at least once, with the Rebels going 0-2 against Texas A&M, which follows Baylor on this year's schedule.

The Rebels and Aggies meet Sept. 13 at College Station in a 4 p.m. game. A&M, it should be noted, is favored to win the 1975 Southwest title.

Preparing for the shuttle to Waco and College Station, Coach Ken Cooper's second Old Miss team has been busy since August 15, when nearly two weeks of twice-daily rehearsals were launched.

This week will be trimming his squad to meet the 48-man visiting team limitation.

And where the cropping will be effected, in all probability, will be with the specialty units plus solid depth in areas where it existed.

The Rebs have been traveling with 60-plus man squads for a number of years. They will be able to dress out 60 for the three campus games, with Southern, Mississippi, Georgia and Vanderbilt, and for the games in Jackson with South Carolina, LSU and Mississippi State. Even for the Tennessee game in Memphis, a home game by designation, the limitation will be 48 players.

Cooper, his staff and his players do not like the new NCAA regulations, but it's a situation they'll have to live with.

Current squad ratings, all subject to change, find seven seniors starting on offense along with two juniors and two sophomores. On defense, there are four seniors, four juniors and three sophomores.

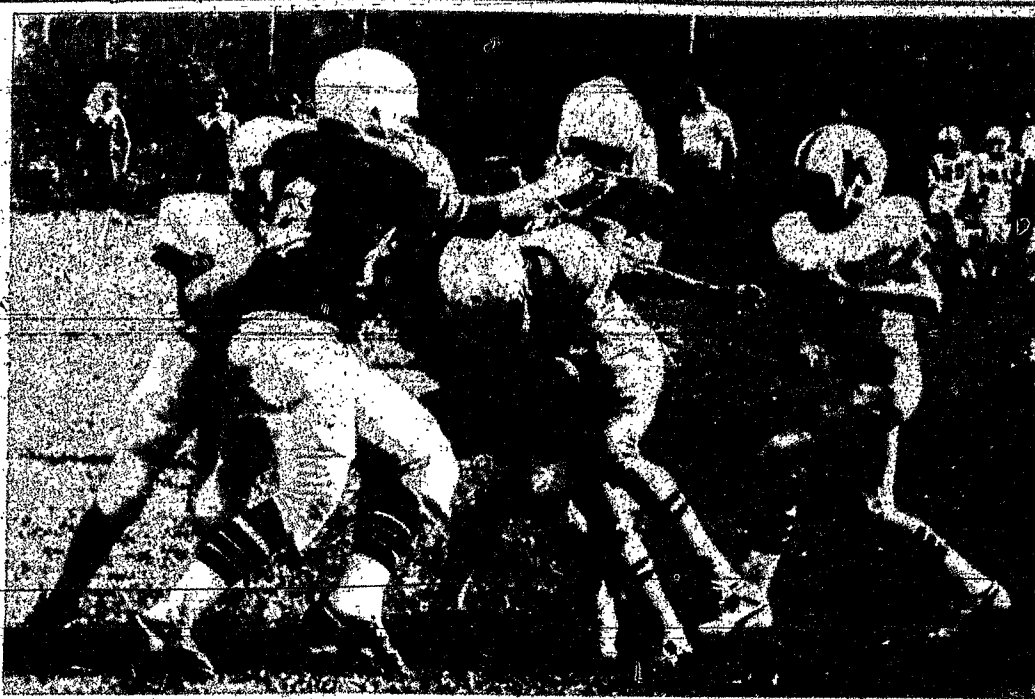

Seniors on offense are center John MacNeill (6-1, 232), tackles Dick Lawrence (6-3, 240) and James Hickman (6-2, 232), flanker Rick Kimbrough (5-10, 177), split end Bill Small (6-2, 185), fullback Paul Hofer (6-0, 186) and tailback James Reed (6-0, 200). The juniors are guards Robert Henry (6-0, 245) and Chuck Kota (6-3, 240). The sophomores are letterman Curtis Weathers (6-5, 210) at tight end and George Plasketes (6-2, 205) at quarterback.

Seniors starting on defense are Bill Farris (6-4, 215) at left end, Ben Williams (6-3, 255) at right tackle, Richard Clippard (6-3, 235) at middle guard and Scott Steele (6-3, 195) at right end.

The juniors are George Stuart (6-0, 205) at linebacker, George Nasif (6-0, 185) and Charlie Moss (5-10, 175) at the corners in the secondary and Brad Pittman (6-0, 188) at strong safety.

Sophomores with starter status are Lawrence Johnson (6-4, 248) at left tackle, Ken Coleman (6-4, 238) at linebacker and Gary Jones (6-3, 195) at free safety. He is the lone non-letterman starting on defense.

Head knocking time

Several of the junior high and elementary school teams start up their head knocking season today. Among those, who will be seeing action this week will be Bay Junior High, St. Clare's and St. Paul's.

Ole Miss Rebels have the toe

UNIVERSITY, Miss. - The kicking game, more than just a close family relative to offensive and defensive effectiveness in football, has drawn a sharp eye from Ole Miss head coach Ken Cooper in the Rebel camp.

An accomplished punter and place-kicker in his own right, Cooper thrives on position football. He well knows the values of precision booting. In 1956, as an end at Georgia under the late Wally Butts, Cooper toed a 43-yard field goal to beat Florida 3-0. It held as a Bulldog record until 1961.

Against Texas in 1957, the Rebel coach scooped up the fumbled snap on an extra point attempt and drop-kicked the conversion.

He's seeking that same marksmanship in the Johnny Reb kicking game this year.

Steve Lavinghouse returns as one of the proven extra point and field goal marksmen in the Southeastern Conference.

But gone is Gred Breland, who averaged 39.3 yards on 148 punts from 1972-74.

In Breland's stead, Cooper is working starting defensive end Bill Farris and alternate tailback David Coates.

Neither Farris nor Coates has punted in a varsity contest. However, according to Cooper, neither should be seriously handicapped from that inexperience.

"Farris and Coates are improving with each practice," Cooper noted Thursday.

"And with the progress they have made to date, it appears our overall punting game could be one area of improvement over 1974."

Farris, a 6-4, 215 veteran senior, was the punter for the 1972 freshman team, kicking 30 times for a 32.5 average.

In last spring's Red-Blue game, he averaged 32.3 yards on three punts and 36.3 yards on three punts in the '74 family

% of a point of winning the

56th Annual Sir Thomas Lipton Cup Regatta held at Southern Yacht Club Labor Day weekend. Woody Stiefel's victory in the final race, which won for him the Commodore Larry Beauvais Trophy, was not enough to overcome the four-point lead held by New Orleans Yacht Club, whose skipper Click Schreck finished fourth, earning the necessary score to take the Lipton Challenge Cup to New Orleans Yacht Club.

Bay Waveland's Team Captain, Harry Chapman had his hands full organizing the team skippers and crews and planning the strategy.

All of the four races of the series were sailed in light variable breezes, and in each case the long Lipton course had to be shortened by one or more legs because the air was so light.

Mimi Eagan and Chris Stiefel crewed for Bubby Eagan, who sailed the Bay Waveland Flying Scot to victory in the opening race Saturday afternoon. Buzzy Heaster finished fifth in the Sunday morning race with Tommy Heaster and Corky Hadden as crew.

Bay Waveland, Pensacola, and New Orleans Yacht Clubs were vying for first position in the series when New Orleans Yacht Club surged ahead with a third race victory, with Marc Eagan in fourth place, Cindy and Dennis Stiefel as his crew.

UNIVERSITY, MISS. - The Ole Miss junior varsity football team, under the tutelage of highly successful prep mentor Jack Carlisle, will launch a five-game season Sept. 22 against Mississippi State in Starkville. Carlisle is being assisted by nine graduate assistant coaches, all ex-Rebel footballers. Offensive assistants are David Parham of Tupelo, Mike Ranatza of Hattiesburg, La., and S.T. Ray, Steve Smith and John Buchanan all of Jackson.

Co-ordinating the defense is Buz Morrow of Yazoo City with help from Greg Markow, Pete Markow and Stump Russell, all of Jackson.

The schedule calls for two campus games, against Alabama on Oct. 17 and Mississippi State on Nov. 17. Both contests have 2 p.m. starting times.

Waveland youth highlights rodeo

By DAVID PIERSON
A 14-year-old Waveland youth Saturday provided the fireworks at the fourth annual Long Beach Fishing Rodeo when he brought in the first tarpon ever caught in the rodeo's history.

Donald Harvill, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Harvill of Waveland, stunned the rodeo crowd with the 98-pound tarpon he caught at the mouth of the Pearl River. The prize-catch measured 68 inches and took the youth one hour and 45 minutes to bring in. Harvill caught the fish early Saturday morning.

The Bay Junior High youth was with his father and a cousin, Ellis Cuevas, when he caught the prize of the rodeo. He was using a 40-pound test line and a 200 Penn Reel when he caught him with a half-breaker.

Harvill was awarded a $25 check, a tackle box, a rod and reel, and an invitation to appear on the Dudley Helliger television show in September on WLOX Channel 13.

In a story of the one that got away, David, his brother, hooked still another tarpon on Labor Day in the Pearl River.

but after a two-hour, 15-minute struggle, it got away by wrapping itself around a bridge piling.

Among the other records set at the rodeo were marks set for the largest overall fish and the largest red fish.

Merlin Wagner got a 356-pound shark to grab the largest fish record, and Larry Edwards hooked a 42-pound red fish to set a new record in that category.

The salt water king fisherman was John C. Tyrney, who brought in 394 pounds and 5 1/2 ounces. Doris Leonard was the salt water queen fisherette with 419 pounds and five ounces.

G. O. Nelson garnered the fresh water king fisherman trophy with 67 pounds, six ounces, and Vickie Smith was the fresh water queen fisherette with catches totaling 19 pounds, six ounces.

The award for turning in the most pounds of fish went to Doly Fourrier with $29.

Twelve trophies were awarded, and the top three fishermen in each category received prizes. The final standings were as follows:

SPORT TALK

Q & A

By Charlie Henderson

QUESTION: Settle an office argument. Is it true the average basketball player makes twice as much as the average pro footballer?

ANSWER: It's true. Joe Namath's $250,000 a year is supposedly pro football's top salary, and many basketball stars have better contracts. The average NFL salary is not publicized, but it comes in at around $36,000, and the average for pro basketball is more than twice as high.

QUESTION: Was Tank Younger of the Rams the first black to make it in the NFL?

ANSWER: You'll hear that said, but in fact black players go way back in the story of pro football. Fritz Pollard, an All-American back, was a rival of Jim Thorpe, playing for the Maconville Tigers in the game's early days. Duke Slater was a standout tackle for the Chicago Cardinals in the 1930's. But it's true that Younger opened the floodgate when he came out of Grambling College to star at fullback for the Rams from 1946 through the 50's. It was the tank who sent pro sports scrambling to make the black colleges for talent which they had to shut down.

QUESTION: How did the Rams get the first black to make it in the NFL?

That's some minnow

Donald Harvill of Waveland holds up the 98-pound tarpon he hooked at the mouth of the Pearl River Saturday. The fish, measuring 68 inches, was the first ever entered in the Long Beach fishing Rodeo. Harvill struggled with the rodeo prize for almost two hours before he won the battle.

Echo forecasts

Whatever happened to "No Comment"?

By DAVID PIERSON
Echo Sports Editor

In politics they have two simple words for it - "no comment". It can't even be used against them in a court of law (where most of our politicians seem to be ending up these days).

But in football there is no such thing as the "no comment". Why use such a confining phrase when you can choose from such a rich assortment of football clichés? Any coach worth his salt knows them - and can recite as many as ten of them in a row for you without even stopping to breathe.

"We've got some hungry football players out there this year," says one.

"The spirit's up," says another. "The seniors have been showing a lot of leadership."

And still, another will add, "We'll present a well-balanced attack."

Surely, if you've followed the progress of your favorite team through the preseason so far, you've heard these and dozens of other "no comments" just like them.

In fact, if every word was believed, we would be in for a very boring season. All the teams would be the same with their well-balanced attacks, their quick lines, and their hungry headhunters.

Simply, the clichés are a way of saying "I don't want to tip off any of the coaches before I get them on the field."

One coach said as much to me during the preseason this year when I asked him if his offensive attack would be as unbalanced as it was shaping up to be. "Look," he said with a grin, "You know that, and I know that, but please don't print it. I can't let (fill in the school's) coach know that. . . Just say I think we'll have a well-balanced attack."

So for everything that has been written about your favorite team, take it with the grain of salt that your coach is worth. No one, not even the coaches, know how good or how bad the teams are. That's why the mortality rate of football forecasters is highest in the first three weeks of the season. With that being said, here is the way ten games of local interest look to the Echo sportscasters:

Warriors to march on St. Paul's

The Warriors from St. Clare's Elementary School in Waveland will kick off their football season Saturday morning at the St. Stanislaus field against St. Paul's of Pass Christian.

The Warriors, who are coming back from a year layoff from inter-school competition, will be out to take the Gulf Coast Western Conference crown under the direction of their head coach Ray Kidd and his assistant Reggie Fayard.

There will be a parade starting about 9 a.m. from St. Clare's Saturday morning that will take the 35 team members and the team followers to the Stanislaus field. Included in the parade will be the cheerleaders, the precision-marching team, parents, and faculty members.

Admission to the game is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. At halftime there will be a scrimmage in which the younger players on both teams will see action.

Raider coaches optimistic with passing attack

By Norman Bowers

With the help of two new coaches, the Coast Episcopal Raiders are looking to break their losing streak that extends through last year.

Aiding head coach Aubrey Penton in the rebuilding effort will be Charles James, who played last year for Jackson State, and Ted Lyons, James' high school teammate at Gulfport High.

With the loss of last year's starting quarterback, the Raiders will be looking to senior Steve Tate to fill in. Tate, who played halfback for the Raiders last year, appears to be making the transition to his new position with little trouble. Both coaches Jones and Lyons feel Tate has the right attitude and can "get the job done."

The Raiders are small in numbers, especially on the line where they will be looking to senior Phil Brown for leadership. Brown is returning to his offensive tackle slot and will be helped by returnee Robbie Asher at the other tackle position. The Raiders will also look to Randy Bowers at guard and Steve Hunt at center to bolster the front and give Tate time to work in the backfield.

Other returning players for Coast Episcopal include seniors Don Coffey at tight end and Raymond Shepard at corner back. Also returning are juniors Theron Furr at split end, Bill Kulick, and sophomore Jay Sandlin.

The Raiders will set out to nail down that first win of the year this Saturday at home against First Assembly of New Orleans. Gametime is 3:30 p.m.
